Your child and family will experience many transitions, small and large, over time. Three predictable transitions occur for most children: reaching school age, approaching adolescence, and moving from adolescence into adulthood. Many children do not experience these transitions in the way most children experience them. Other transitions may involve moving into new programs, working with new agencies and care providers, or making new friends. Transitions involve changes: adding new expectations, responsibilities, or resources, and letting go.

Looking at transitions may be hard, depending on your circumstances. You may have limited time just to do what needs to get done today. You may find it helpful, though, to jot down a few ideas about your child's and family's future. You might start by thinking about your child's and family's strengths. How can these strengths help you plan for "what's next" and for reaching long-term goals? What are your dreams and your fears about your child's and family's future?
